ANY TIME IS YOUR TIME

How women can derive wisdom, healing and power from all phases of life

- Especially for women over 40; but even younger women will benefit from reading this
- Turning away from false ideals, turning towards the true path of a woman's development
- Every woman, at any stage of life, and at any time, can call on a living archetype

No matter what age, any woman can develop the qualities from all the different phases of her life at any time - whether it be the curiosity of the little girl, the enthusiasm of the young woman, the loving care of the mother, the passionate creative energy of the mature woman, or the wisdom of the old woman. Sabine Groth knows how to familiarize us, in a deeply sensitive way, with the characteristics of those archetypes living within us. Effective exercises will deepen this path of increasing self-awareness, leading to the full power of being a woman.

Together we begin a journey through the life phases of a woman. This means that all the qualities, abilities and maturation processes can be accessed at all times, not just at each age-related point. At any time of our lives, we have the possibility for developing those female personality aspects, which include great understanding, compassion and foresight, depth of soul, receptiveness and lived sensuousness, along with consciousness awareness, love, empathy and knowledge about the soul. The volume is divided up into five chapters, each one describing a certain phase of life. The first chapter takes a journey to that little girl within us, to her strengths and joys, as well as to her pain and injuries, so that these may finally be healed. In the second chapter, we turn to the young woman within and allow ourselves to be inspired by her power and openness. Even if a woman has already reached the stage of later life, she is able to retain her youthful charm, her adventurous spirit, and her ability for enthusiasm and unfold her youthful-mature beauty.

The third chapter describes the ups and downs, the strengths and snares of being a mother. You do not even need to be a mother of physical children. It is all about being a great Mother – for our children, for our projects and for ourselves.

In the fourth chapter, we discover how we may employ that fire of the menopause years for our maturing process and how the phenomena of the menopause can become valuable signposts on a path to a healthy, self-determined life.

In the fifth chapter, finally, we encounter the wise old one. We find out, how we can, even then, make contact with our older, wiser 'I' and contact that ancient knowledge of the world, in order to cope with life's challenges. Experiments and exercises invite us to deepen what we have read, to delve further into the subject matter, and to deal in more depth with one of the aspects. Power statements at the end of each chapter provide affirmations, which can support and strengthen us along our journey.

The book initiates us into the secrets of agelessness. The consequences will be apparent. After reading this, things will look a lot different – much will look more mature, but at the same time, even more youthful.

Sabine Groth studied theory and methodology of education, English language and literature, and religious studies. She spent several years living in South-East Asia, Israel and Northern Ireland, where she also studied psychology and creative writing. She then embarked on extensive studies in humanist psychotherapy and therapy for couples. She now works as a teacher, psychotherapist and conducts therapy for couples. As a leader of women's groups and seminars she supports women on their paths to self-aware femininity. Sabine Groth lives in Berlin with her family. ## MOTHERS OF THE NEW AGE

A plea for child-oriented development

- For all mothers who are faced with the question of turning to childcare provided by others or self-childcaring
- Various reports of experiences make the subject understandable and comprehensible in a lively manner
- Supported by expert reports of case studies
- The author has been involved with the subject matter for many years and has been active in the public sphere

Childcare supplied by others, even for the very young, appears to be the norm. It has even been advocated as necessary furthering of and improvement for the child. But is it really the ultimate answer?

This volume highlights the experiences and observations of young mothers who look after their children by themselves during the early years, and thus enable child-oriented development of the individual. They are following their inner voice, with full awareness of their task and their financial sacrifice. Factual information given between the individual biographical case studies provides additional depth to the complex themes of childminding by the mother.

Using 21 biographical reports about the experiences and observations by young mothers who engaged in childcare by themselves, this book would like to encourage young mothers to listen to their own inner voice, if they believe that their child is not yet mature enough for childcare by others. The reports clearly show the individual motives and circumstances, which led to the decision for child-oriented development beyond the cradle and childcare by others. The children mentioned here, who experienced childcare by their mothers, were aged between 1 and 5.

The women presenting these cases are all very different, and describe very different self-determined ways which led to their choosing to look after their own children. Some of these women were even childcaring in nurseries, or were themselves employed childminding, so they know both sides of the question.

Short reference texts by experts are inserted in between the individual reports of experiences, in order to give a necessary insight into the complex thematic of self-childcaring within the present socio-political context. References to further literature or web-pages are supplied for interested readers to access additional information.

The author, Sabine Mänken, born 1964, is the mother of three children, studied business studies (diploma) and is a certified advisor for biographies. From 2010 onward, she has accompanied people on soul journeys based on biographical rhythms (life phases). For two years she was Vice-Chair of an organisation working with families, is a networker and gives lectures. This book gave her the inspiration for a movement called "Mothers of the New Age", which is forming via the social networks and their messengers.

A CALL TO POWER

*Revelations of the ultimate feminine principle
Lessons from the Grandmothers. Vol. 1*

BESTSELLING TITLE 2020

- The book about a growing global movement
- At last: Woman has a part to play with her female power
- Encouragement for every woman
- Postulating a new equilibrium between Yin and Yang, between the female and the male principles
- Messages which are desperately needed

Yang, the male energy, is completely out of kilter: making, doing, controlling, reasoning, dealing with what is measurable. And even many women are living this yang energy. The grandmothers have arrived in order to give the Yin - that allowing-to-grow, being, loving attention - meaning and recognition once more. They want to bring women back to their own power and reconnect them with their own true femininity and the Great Mother.

Sharon McErlane has worked as a therapist for many years and personally experienced how much our male-dominated view and attitudes toward life have made so many people sad, sick, and unhappy. In a vision, one day, she met the 'Great Counsel of the Grandmothers', who gifted her with an 'energetic robe'. After this, she learned to journey as a shaman and to continue to make contact with these grandmothers.

The book tells of these journeys, presents the lessons of the grandmothers, and wishes to lead women back to their own power, which is so different from male energy. Men, too, suffer whenever Yin and Yang are not in harmony. If a tree is only growing skyward and the roots are withering, because the deep things, the dark things, the softness and moisture, are not given their due, then the tree will soon die.

What we are experiencing in the world now, is the frenzy of Yang, which is exhausting itself, more and more, and is threatening all life. It will be up to women, to make the Yin strong again, so that the source of Being, in which all Life is rooted, can be regenerated.

Sharon McErlane was a teacher and marriage and family guidance counsellor for more than three decades. Her work concentrated on clients and students, to give them techniques for spiritual and emotional integration which they could use to accompany them through life. She teaches shamanic journeying and travels, in order to speak to groups and to spread the message of the Grandmothers. She is married, has two grown-up children and lives with her husband and a Golden Retriever in Laguna Beach, California.

OUR LOVE IS OUR POWER

Working with the Net of Light that Holds the Earth
Lessons of the grandmothers Vol 2

BEST NEW RELEASE spring 2021!

- A continuing success story
- New messages from the grandmothers – exactly for our present time
- Descriptions of working with the Light Net and the practical consequences

The grandmothers have come, in order to make the Yin strong again on Earth. In this book, Sharon McErlane has written about many further encounters with the grandmothers and their lessons and of the work with numerous women who, meanwhile, have been working worldwide with the Light Net.

In her first book A Call to Power, Sharon McErlane describes her first encounter with the “Great Council of the Grandmothers”. They are wise beings, who are effective in the spiritual world and are now actively working on enabling the power of the Feminine in the world, and bringing it back to its due importance and respect. Without this Yin, the Yang which is getting completely out of hand in our world, will destroy itself. It is the nourishing Yin, the power of the roots, which reaches down deep into the darkness and the moisture, which nourishes the network of Life and provides it with the water of life. Connecting us once more with this life-net, this light-net, and to engage in a pulsating exchange with it, will give us the strength to remain with our true selves in these times of great change. By unfolding our Love, we will unfold our power and give the World peace and harmony.

This book is a source of encouragement. It is challenging women to stand up for themselves, to their greatness and to their original Being.

“By taking up your place in the light net, feeling our love and allowing it to flow, the entire Life Net will become strengthened. It’s as simple as that. We plead with you, to become a constant centre of Love on Earth. Let us hold you, and while we are holding you, enjoy the love which is radiating out from you to others.” (The Grandmothers)

“What is happening in your world now is testing you. All of what you have been taught and what you have experienced until now was the Yang perspective, and because you have internalized it, you want to do something. We are telling you, don’t bother about doing. Rather – be good. Be good. Be yourself and live your life rooted in the Divine. Be it.” (The Grandmothers)

Sharon McErlane has been working with the grandmothers since 2006 and, together with many other women, has created a global light-network: www.grandmothersspeak.com, www.netoflight.org. ## IT'S MAGIC

- Magic in the light of psi-research
- Magic with practical applications for everyone
- Awakening the dormant potential of magic

In this, our rationally saturated world, there no longer seems to be room for magic. But it still exists. We are not speaking here of false magic, which is based on sleight of hand, but rather of the genuine kind, both of the traditional or handed down variety, as well as researched magic. It is a fact, that for some hundred years or so, magical phenomena have been researched. Who better to present us with an up-to-date status of the subject than a woman who has been involved for decades with magical phenomena.

First, a simple question: do you believe in ESP (extra-sensory perception)? No? – But surely you must have had a dream, or even many dreams. What is a dream other than a perception, which may even churn us up emotionally and which, however, has no sensory perception as a base? And the world of magic is only a slight shift away in consciousness; in this book we illuminate this magical world in all its many facets. Not only that; the book also offers a wealth of practical inspirations and exercises of how to become acquainted with the world of magic and how we may enter it.

From the foreword:

A long path has been trodden from magic to science and it will continue to be so, however, the further it leads us, the more magical our world will become again. What we “know” at present, goes beyond the imaginable and throws light on the ancient view of the world, in which everything appears more mysterious than ever before. In that sense, science is increasingly approaching magic again. Physics in particular, probably the most exact science after mathematics, is becoming ever more mystical. I hope therefore that the message I am conveying, in spite of all the ‘dressing up’ in the text, will come across clearly enough and may open within you a gateway to actual amazing possibilities. Magic is real. Marcus Vipsanius Agrippa already told us, “Magic is not playing about with tricks”. If you are sticking to the rules of the game on your journey of exploration in the world of magic, nothing can go wrong for you, or happen – except for pure adventure.

Annekatrin Puhle's book has assembled magical knowledge from history and the present as a basic experience of taking on the role of a creator. Using examples, reflections and experiences, she invites her reader to allow magic into daily thought processes and actions. Gerhild Scholz Williams

Annekatrin Puhle studied philosophy, ethnology and anthropology at the FU Berlin (Free University of Berlin) and obtained her Ph.D. with a subject on the ethics of stoicism. She then worked for 25 years in research projects on “out of the ordinary human experiences”, also known as psi. Commissioned by the IGPP in Freiburg i. Breisgau (Germany), founded by Hans Bender, she helped forgotten knowledge to be brought to light, and now passes on these revelations worldwide in conferences, lectures and the media. She is the author of eleven books. www.annekatrinpuhle.de

EARTH HEALING AND CHANGING CONSCIOUSNESS

Working with the Gillymaa-Mandalas

- Powerful mandalas for harmony and healing
- Practical tools for healing the earth
- Impulses for opening the gateway to a Golden Age

These cards, channelled through a medium, are powerful tools for communicating harmony and healing for the earth. Petra Huebscher has used these motifs for many years in her work and has conducted practical investigations into their effects. They are not oracle cards, but rather working tools. The individual applications of these tools are described in detail in the accompanying book.

In her Introduction Petra Huebscher writes:

You are needed

The set of cards for healing the earth and changing consciousness will challenge you consciously to engage with topical issues of events in our times. You become the earth healer, the earth healer of a new era. You are needed.

The Gillymaa-Mandalas are a true power source for constructing new, holistic forms of energy at the threshold of a gateway to an Age of Light and Love. The risen masters of the divine present, Mother Earth, and the Guardians of the Earth will reach into your heart and train your innermost self. They are challenging you to act with your divine will.

Petra Hübscher is an earth healer, spiritual healer, messenger, medium and artist of the new age. She is the mother of four adult children. Since her youth she gets her strength and calmness in meditation. Trained in Vedic consciousness techniques taught by the world teacher Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, she works as a siddha for world peace.

LINA AND THE SUMMER FESTIVAL

- For all those who can still dream
- Encourages the imagination and nourishes the soul
- Pictures for looking at and discovering

The sparrows are twittering and chirruping all over the fairy tale wood: there's going to be a great summer festival. Naturally, Lina is also invited, and we will meet many good friends, Hieronymus and Rosamunde Honeysuckle ...and even the Christmas Fairy. The Christmas Fairy? Yes, she is coming too – but in her summer dress, naturally. Only Josefina and Alfons sleep through it all. Humans, of course! Lovely, fairy tale pictures invite you to look and discover, and to celebrate the summer.

Jolanda Lindenlaub (*1961) has been painting since childhood. Although painting retreated into the background when her three children came along, she has since been working creatively again for some 12 years. She is familiar with nature and the 'invisible', and her pictures are invitations to immerse oneself in this magical realm. She lives with three horses, her cat Lina and her husband in a small hamlet in the northern Vosges, where the studio in which she works is also located: www.engel-elfen-atelier.de
